

DISCIPLINE POLICY

Heavenly Days Preschool, Inc. tries to maintain a loving atmosphere at all times and teachers use positive approaches to discipline. Redirection and intervention is used most often but in some cases we use the time-out method for discipline. Once an older toddler or two to five year old child has been corrected one or two times for the same offense the child may be required to sit in a specific place for a short period of time. The younger infant or child will be removed or distracted in the case of needed discipline or conflict around another child. The child will not be humiliated or frightened, nor will food, naps, or toileting be used as a form of discipline. Physical discipline is never used.
